Not illustrated. 1883 Excerpt: ...the jury. This morning I feel humble, and I promise the court, if it will grant me a new trial, that I will try to bring myself down to the comprehension of the court and jury." The Judge. "Motion overruled, and a fine of five dollars imposed upon Mr. Brown for contempt of court." "For what?" "For insinuating that the court don't know Latin and Greek from turkey tracks." "I shall not appeal from that decision; your honor has comprehended me this time." Laughed out of Court At Erie, Pennsylvania, the editor of a German humorous paper was sued for libel. On the opening of the trial the defense was astounded by the district attorney claiming an ancient right to "stand aside" any juror called until the box was filled with men acceptable to the commonwealth, the standing aside being independent of the peremptory challenges, and allowable to the extent of standing aside the entire panel, practically enabling the commonwealth to get a jury of its own selection. As the affair was between Germans and the Young Men's Christian Association, the former were fearful that they would all be made stand aside and kept off the jury. On the second morning after the judge had ruled in favor of the "stand aside" claim, Weiss, the defendant, convulsed everybody by coming into court with an armful of ancient legal literature, obtained by ransacking every law library in the city, and asserting a right, under the ruling of the court, to establish his innocence by ordeal, or trial by combat. He contended that if unrepealed ancient procedure is good law his claim to demand the "wagere of battel" was as just and equitable as the "stand aside" privilege. Shrieks of laughter followed the sad-faced man's...
